

The Programming Accessory kit is unique in that its most important component is not a physical piece. It is the program, the systematic set of rules that tells the robot how to behave. By altering this program, you can achieve full control over the way your robot will respond to any situation it might encounter.

programming